United Ability's Susan Sellers Tapped to Lead United Cerebral Palsy

After five years of dedicated leadership at Birmingham's United Ability, CEO Susan Sellers will begin a new chapter as president and CEO of United Cerebral Palsy (UCP) on October 1, a significant international appointment that reflects both her exceptional leadership and the strength of the organization she has led.

Since joining United Ability in 2021, Susan has led with a deep commitment to advancing opportunity and independence for people with disabilities. Under her leadership, United Ability has continued to strengthen and expand critical programs and services. She has also been a tireless advocate for individuals with disabilities, working to ensure their voices are heard and their opportunities are expanded.

Susan's appointment to lead UCP internationally is an important recognition of the depth of expertise and leadership she brings to this work and of the impact that can be made when strong local organizations lead with vision, innovation, and purpose.

"Leading United Ability has been one of the greatest honors of my professional life, and I am deeply grateful to our staff, board, volunteers, donors, community partners, and the families and individuals we serve for the trust and support they have given me. As I begin my next chapter with UCP, I will carry with me the lessons, relationships, and perspective I have gained at United Ability, along with a deep appreciation for the power of strong, community-based organizations working together toward a shared mission. I look forward to bringing that experience to UCP and working alongside its Affiliate Network to expand our collective impact and advance greater inclusion, independence, and opportunity for people with disabilities." - Susan Sellers

For United Ability, this moment is also a source of tremendous pride. As a highly respected leader in our community and a proud UCP affiliate, we are honored that Susan's next chapter will carry the experience and perspective she gained here onto an international stage. Her leadership will help advance the work of UCP and create greater opportunities for people with disabilities to live, learn, work, and thrive.
